PROJECT SUMMARY

Organization Information

The Kijabe Forest Trust was founded in 2013 with the mission to protect, conserve, and restore the Kijabe Forest. Their activities safeguard water and other ecosystem services and enhance opportunities for sustainable livelihoods.

Project description

The Kijabe Forest Trust has created an on-site greenhouse for production of tree seedlings used in the restoration efforts. This greenhouse already houses more than 5000 indigenous seedlings, some of which were funded by Community for Conservations “Tunes for Trees” initiative. The establishment of this greenhouses has enabled the Kijabe Forest Trust to ensure a high level of quality, as well as quantity control, of the seedlings used for restoration. In addition to reforestation, this greenhouse has been used to distribute Croton seedlings to nearby farms, providing a revenue stream that is not logging-based.

Donation use

Each $5 text funds the growing and planting of 5 indigenous seedlings in the Kijabe Forest, Kenya, in partnership with One Tree Planted.
